Introduction

The English textbook for secondary schools is the sixth in a series of seven textbooks which are currently developed to respond to the new policy of the Ministry of Education and Sports on the reform of general education from 11 years to 12 years. Upon the new educational reform, the Ministry of Education has decided to add another year to the secondary school program in the academic year 2009-2010. To implement the new policy, the Foreign Language Resource Centre at the Research Institute for Educational Sciences in cooperation with the Faculty of Letters at the National University of Laos have formed a team to develop the curriculum and write the textbook with a teacher's guide through financial support of the Basic Education Sector Development Project (BESDP).

Along with the textbook, the teacher's guide has also been provided in order to help with more effective teaching. The teacher's guide includes teaching techniques for each step of the lessons. There are also some instructions on how to use teaching aids and some suggestions for teachers and students on how to create teaching aids for their own classes.

However, the textbook is produced under the time pressure; therefore, some minor errors could not be avoided. The Foreign Language Resource Centre highly appreciates all comments and suggestions from readers and these are considered as a great contribution to the quality assurance of the textbook as well as to the development of the Lao National Education. The Research Institute for Educational Sciences avails itself of this opportunity to express its sincere thanks to all contributors.

3. Listen and practise

Listen to the dialogue and practise it in pair.

Vilay: What are your hobbies, Boun?

Boun: I listen to music or play basketball. Those are my hobbies.

Vilay: How often do you play basketball?

Boun: I often play basketball in the afternoon, at least once a week.

How about you, what are your hobbies?

Vilay: My hobbies are swimming and badminton.

Boun: Are you a good swimmer?

Vilay: No, not really. I am actually looking for a trainer.

Do you know any trainers?

Boun: Perhaps I can train you. I am good at swimming.

Vilay: That's great! When could we start?

Boun: Whenever you are ready.

Vilay: I am free this weekend, how about you?

Boun: Is 4:00 pm on Saturday OK with you?

Vilay: Yes, that's OK. Which swimming pool do we go to?
 Boun: Which one do you go to?
 Vilay: Vientiane Swimming Pool.
 Boun: OK, I will see you there at 4.00 pm then.
 Vilay: Great. See you there. Bye, Boun.
 Boun: Bye, Vilay.

Dear Chansamone

It was a very big surprise for me when I saw the mail from you.

I must tell you that I am very happy after having read and answered the mail from a new friend who lives in a far country.

Luang Prabang sounds exciting; I would like to visit you and go to interesting places in Luang Prabang, but I can't afford to travel at this time. As you know, a round- trip ticket from Sidney to Vientiane is quite expensive. However, I am saving up the money so that I can come to see you.

As for my hobbies, interests and ambition, I have quite a few; writing poetry and short stories are my favorite hobbies. Please keep my ambition as a secret between us. My ambition is to become a famous writer someday.

I am a music lover. I listen to all kinds of music. I also play the piano and basketball for my school. We have to practise every Saturday morning.

Well, let me know about your hobbies, interests and ambition.

I have two e-mail addresses. My second one is, Tara@gmail.com.

Thanks so much. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Best regards,

Tara

Questions:

Example:

1. Who wrote the email to Chansamone?

Tara.

3. Listen and practise

Listen to the dialogue and practise it in pair.

Jim, a university student from Australia is asking Khen about what Lao students do at their leisure.

Jim: What do students in this school like doing at their leisure?

Khen: Boys usually like playing football, girls like playing volleyball or practising Lao traditional dance.

Jim: I see. They are not much different from students in Australia. They like sports such as football, tennis and sometimes play music.

What do you do at your leisure, Khen?

Khen: After class, I love playing football or I sometimes play the piano in the afternoon.

Jim: Oh, me too! Football is my favourite sport, but I'm not good at playing the piano.

Khen: We like doing the same things then!

Jim: That's right; perhaps we can play football while I'm staying in Laos.

Khen: Sounds great! That's a very good idea.

3. Listen and practise

Listen to the dialogue and practise it in pair.

Chanh is talking to Tha at their school.

- Tha: What are you going to do this weekend?
- Chan: I'm not sure. My teacher gave us a suggestion that we should think about what field of study to take before the graduation.
- Tha: You have to think about that over the weekend, right?
- Chan: Yes, but I will do that after taking my little sister to a bookshop because I made her a promise.
- Tha: Which bookshop are you going to?
- Chan: I don't know yet, but I believe she knows which one she's going to.
- Tha: Why don't you take her to the library nearby my house? It's the biggest library in town. It's called Vientiane Library.
- Chan: Oh, really? Does it have easy reading books for her age?
- Tha: Plenty. I'm sure you and your sister will find some interesting books there.

Chan: Good. I'm going to take her there. This will be a big surprise for her. And I hope to find some books for my homework too. Thanks a lot, Tha.

Tha: You're welcome, Chan. Have a nice time there!

Deng: What do you think about Champasack?

Somsy: Champasack is also a good place to go. I think you shouldn't miss it. The biggest waterfall is in Champasack.

Deng: What is the name of the waterfall?

Somsy: It's called Khonephapheng waterfall.

Deng: Oh, I see. What about the beautiful sightseeing?

Somsy: There are Tad Lor, Pha Souam, Tad Pharn and there are many more. They are all amazing. But if you don't want to travel that far, you can have a picnic or visit some places around Vientiane.

Deng: Hmm..... If I choose to have a picnic in Vientiane, where should I go?

Somsy: You should go to Tad Moon?

Deng: Why is Tad Moon?

Somsy: Because it's the closest waterfall- about 20 km from the city. Driving is very convenient, the road is good and it's easy to get there.

Deng: Thanks for all useful details. Well, I will think over where I will go for my holiday.

5. Read and answer

→ Answer the questions.

- When was your last holiday?
- Where did you go?
- How did you plan your last holidays?

→ Read the following text and answer the questions below.

Preparing for a picnic at Tad Moon.

My name is Deng. This is my plan about the upcoming holidays. My family and I are going to have a picnic at Tad Moon which suggested by one of my classmates, Somsy.

In the past, we always bought lunch at site, but this time we plan to prepare lunch ourselves. We're going to make bamboo soup at the picnic area. So, we have to get our cooking utensils and food ingredients for the cooking. Making the bamboo shoot soup, we need bamboo shoots, chillies, fermented fish sauce and soaked sticky rice (sticky rice paste). These are the main ingredients, and they are available at Tad Moon where local people sell their products.

Charcoal and beverages are also available at the refreshment centre. It's quite convenient to do your own cooking at Tad Moon.

We are also going to wear something that suitable to go swimming. Sport shoes are also necessary in case we want to take a walk along the river bank.

I think we have everything that we need and just hope the weather would be nice on the day of our picnic so we can enjoy the holidays.

Questions:

1. Where did Deng plan to go on his holidays?
.....
2. Who suggested the place?
.....
3. Did he decide to go alone?

Thavy: At the Lao Aviation office.

Julia: Is there any hotel around the market?

Thavy: Yes, there are lots of hotels and also restaurants that serve traditional Lao food around the market.

Julia: Oh, one more question. Can I swim at the waterfall?

Thavy: I'm afraid not. It's dangerous to go swimming there because during the rainy season, a current of water is very strong. But you can swim during the dry season.

Julia: Thanks a lot. You're very helpful.

Driving to Luang Prabang

Driving to Luang Prabang in Laos is tiring, but interesting to see views along the road. Luang Prabang is about 350 km. far from Vientiane Capital. Most local tourists like to drive to Luang Prabang even though they know the road is hilly and curved that makes them very tired. On the road from Vientiane Capital, they can see beautiful Lao old style wooden houses that are not easy to find in other places. The first mountain, they have to cross is PhouPha where most passengers stop at the altar site and make their wishes for safe trips. When they go down the other side of Phoupha, they start to take adventure along narrow, hilly, curved, and sometimes on the cliff road. However, they can unwind themselves when they arrived to VangVieng where they can see beautiful mountains and Lao traditional living style of people. Further up to Phoukhoun, they can stop at the famous restaurant where they can have lunch and see the view with white clouds floating under the level of the restaurant. At Phoukhoun, they can see ethnic people selling their produce on the roadsides. Kewkacham is also a good place to stop over to see various life styles of ethnic groups. From Kewkacham, it will take about two hours to arrive to Luang Prabang where the stupa on top of Phousy can be seen as a sign they have arrived Luang Prabang.

Travelling by car to Luang Prabang is tiring, but it is worth to experience.

Ho Prakeo

Ho Prakeo is one of the historic buildings and the oldest temple in Vientiane. It was built in 1560 -1565 by the King Saysethathirath as a royal temple and the home of the Emerald Buddha image. It was destroyed in 1779 and the Emerald Buddha image was taken away. At that time, not only Ho Prakeo temple, but all the temples in Vientiane were completely burned down by Siamese. Ho Prakeo was renovated and extended in 1811 – 1813 by the king Anouvong.

After the revolution in 1975, the temple was converted into a Buddhist national museum and a place for keeping nation's finest collection of Buddhist sculpture and artifacts. Ho PraKeo was called "Wat PraKeo" ("Temple of the Emerald Buddha") during the time that the statue was in residence there. It is now called "Ho PraKeo" ("Altar of the Emerald Buddha") because only an altar is there; the Emerald Buddha image still remains in Thailand as of today.

Lavanh: What about drinks?

Doctor: You should drink boiled water, milk and fruit juice and avoid drinking alcohol such as beer and whisky.

Lavanh: What else should I do, doctor?

Doctor: You should do some exercise. It's good for your health.

Lavanh: Thank you very much for your advice, doctor.

Doctor: You are welcome.

4. Read and complete

Read the text and find the words/phrases, then match them with the picture below.

Fitness maintaining good health.

What does fitness mean? Fitness means to be in good physical shape and able to get around without becoming breathless. Firstly, to be fit you must not be overweight. If you are overweight you need to be careful of your diet and avoid excess sugar and food that contains too much fat.

Secondly, it is necessary to exercise regularly. Some people like farmers or construction workers get enough exercise just through their work. Others do their exercises by walking, cycling, playing football, volleyball, basketball, tennis and swimming. Those activities are all good forms of exercises. The outdoor ones such as jogging, aerobics, hiking, mountain climbing and cycling can provide excellent exercises as well.

People who live in crowded cities do not have many choices of doing their exercises outdoor, so it is more convenient for them to go to a nearby gym but it does not mean they could not stay fit.

Therefore, you can see there are many choices to maintain your fitness. No matter where you are and who you are, you always have the opportunities to stay fit.

Khamtan is a secondary school student. He is preparing his presentation about AIDS; he doesn't know much about it, so he asks his father for a help.

Khamtan: Could I ask you a few questions, dad?

Dad: Ok. What could I do to help?

Khamtan: What are the differences between HIV and AIDS?

Dad: HIV is the virus which attacks the T-cells in the immune system and AIDS is the syndrome which appears in advanced stages of HIV infection. People who get HIV will develop AIDS.

Khamtan: How HIV is transmitted?

Dad: Hmm! HIV can be transmitted in several ways, you can catch it by sexual contact with an infected person, by sharing syringes and needles with an infected person, infected mother can pass the virus to their babies before or during birth, and babies can get it from their mothers' milk.

Khamtan: Can we catch it by using the same towels or sharing clothes?

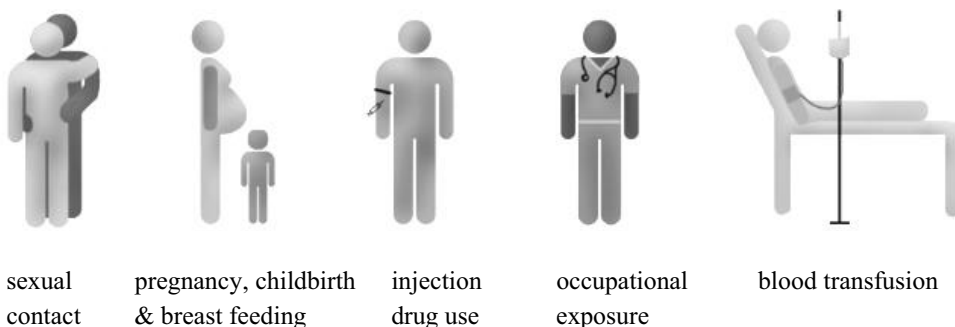

Dad: No, certainly not. We can't catch HIV from mosquito bites, sharing public toilets, showers, swimming pools, or saunas touching and hugging a person who has HIV.

Khamtan: I understand more about HIV now. Thanks dad.

4. Read and answer

- Answer the questions.
- What do you know about AIDS?
 - Is there a cure for AIDS?
- Read the text and answer the questions below.

What is AIDS?

AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) is caused by a virus called the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV). People can have the HIV virus for many years.

Sometimes, they do not know they are infected, and they can infect other people. Most people who are infected with HIV will develop AIDS.

Most people who are infected with HIV experience short flu-like illness that occurs two to six weeks after infection. After this, HIV often causes no symptoms for several years.

The most common symptoms are: fever, sore throat, a red rash and other symptoms can include: tiredness, joint pain, muscle pain, chills, sweat, weakness and loss weight.

HIV is not passed on easily from one person to another. The virus doesn't spread through the air like cold and flu viruses. HIV lives in the blood and in some body fluids. Ways of getting HIV include;

- Sharing needles, syringes and other injecting equipment.
- From mother to baby before or during birth or by breastfeeding.
- Blood transfusion.
- Sexual contact.

But the virus cannot be transmitted by handshake, hugging, kissing, sneezing, touching, and sharing the same toilet, swimming pool, towels, baths or contact with animals or insects such as mosquitoes.

At present there is no cure for AIDS. There are more and more cases of HIV infection every year, so prevention is very important.

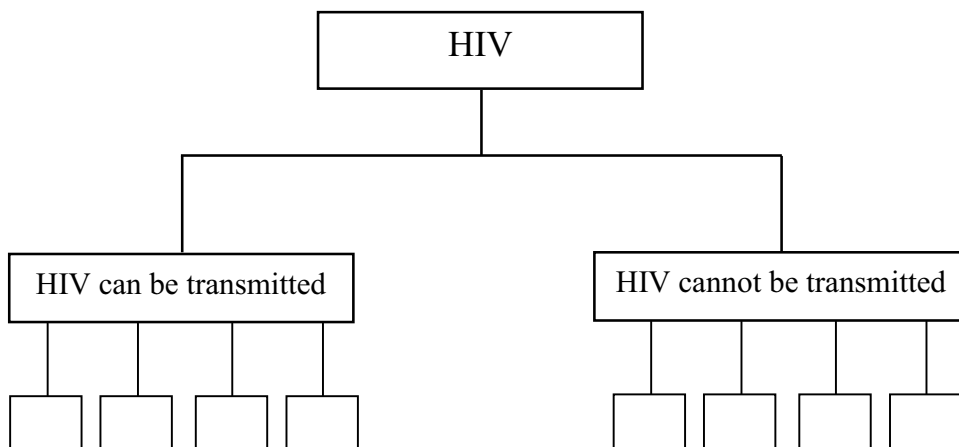

Governments are encouraging all citizens, especially teenagers in all schools to learn more about HIV and AIDS, how virus can be transmitted and how to avoid catching it and how to protect themselves from getting HIV infection.

Student: What is the cause?

Teacher: It's caused by a parasite called Plasmodium, which passed on to the people from whom had been bitten by the mosquitoes that carrying the parasite.

Student: What about the symptoms?

Teacher: Well, the early symptoms can be noticed, such as having a headache, aching muscle, diarrhea, vomiting, especially with children, lacking of energy, losing an appetite and a coughing. If these symptoms have occurred they should see the doctor immediately.

Student: Oh! I see. Thank you very much, teacher.

4. Read and answer

- Answer the questions.
 - Have you ever heard about malaria?
 - Have you ever had malaria?
 - How do people catch with malaria?
- Read the text and answer the questions below.

What is malaria?

Malaria is a life-threatening disease. It is caused by a parasite that is passed from one person to another by the bite of infected Anopheles mosquitoes.

After being infected, the parasites travel through the bloodstream up to the livers, where they become mature and release another form, the parasites enter the bloodstream and infect red blood cells.

There are four different kinds of malaria, but only two of them are found in Laos. The more serious form is Falciparum Malaria (Or jungle fever).

A person with a serious type of malaria needs to have some medical treatments very quickly because it can develop itself into the jungle fever that has killed approximately 95% of its victims.

Since 1638, quinine has been used to treat malaria. Quinine is made from the bark of a tree. In 1945 a new drug, Chloroquine, was developed. This is much more effective in preventing and treating malaria.

It is important to protect ourselves from malaria; these are some precautions that we follow:

- Wear long sleeves and cover your legs, especially at night.
- Make sure windows and doors are screened to prevent entry of mosquitoes into the house.
- Use a bed net while sleeping.
- Spray home and surrounding areas with insecticide to kill mosquitoes.
- Clear out shrubs and weeds around the house where mosquitoes can be hiding.

Malaria is one of the major causes of death to millions of people around the world. It could lead to many complications such as; Dengue, paralysis and coma. So we must get rid of mosquitoes by keeping surrounding areas clean so that our family and community can be safe.

Questions:

1. How do people catch malaria?

→ Read the text and answer the questions below.

What is bird flu?

Bird flu, avian flu is caused by a type of influenza virus that is hosted by birds, and may also infect several species of mammals. It was first identified in Italy in the early 1900s and is now known to exist worldwide.

Areas of world that have mainly been affected are Indonesia, Vietnam, parts of Cambodia, China, Thailand, and Europe. Strains of avian influenza virus may infect various types of animals, including birds, pigs, horses, seals, whales and humans.

Bird flu or avian flu can be transmitted to humans by eating uncooked meat from infected birds. It can also be caught by contact with their faeces and other bodily fluids. Infected feathers and dropping on bird cages may also contribute to the spread of the virus.

We don't know whether bird flu can be passed from person to person. So far, cases of bird flu have involved people working or living with birds, often in very poor conditions.

The symptoms are similar to those of other kinds of flu, such as sore throat, aching muscles, headache, cough and feverishness. More severe symptoms include nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, eye infections and could ultimately lead to pneumonia and respiratory failure. One symptom which is seen in many patients is the infection of the lower respiratory tract. Expert believes that difficulty in breathing develops around five days after the first symptoms.

The precautions that we have to follow always wash your hands properly before and after handling meat. It is important to make sure that you wash and clean the meat and eggs properly and cook it so that the virus can't survive. If you've flu-like symptoms you should go to the hospital immediately because unlike seasonal flu the disease has a much higher fatality rate.

2. Listen and repeat

Listen and repeat the words/phrases in the box after the teacher.

3. Listen and practise

Listen to the dialogue and practise it in pair.

Somsack: Sila, what are you going to do after class?

Sila: Well, I'm not sure. I might go swimming in the river.

Somsack: Really? That sounds fun.

Sila: Yes. My house is close to the river, so I often go swimming there. Would you like to come with me?

Somsack: I'd love too. But first, I have to ask my parents for permission.

Sila: That's good. You're a good boy.

Somsack: I think you are lucky to have a house that's close to the river.

Sila: Yes. I am and I also believe that all of us are lucky to have so many crisscross rivers in our country.

Somsack: Yes, you are right.

4. Read and answer

→ Answer the questions.

- Could you name some of the rivers in Laos?
- What is the longest river in Laos?
- Are rivers important to Lao people? Why?

→ Read the passage and answer the questions below.

Rivers in Laos

Laos has many crisscross rivers that create lakes and streams along their ways. The Mekong River runs from the North to the South it has a length of 1835 km.

Rivers are the energy sources. The electricity is created by strong current from the rivers running through hydropower plans. More than half of electricity that is used in the lower basin of the Mekong River has been produced within the country.

Nam Ou River flows from Phongsaly to Luang Prabang. It has a length of 448 km. Nam Beng River is 215 km in length. It's in Oudomsay Province.

Nam Tha River flows from Luang Namtha to Bokeo. It has a length of 325 km.

Nam Khan River runs between Houaphan and Luang Prabang. It has a length of 90 km.

Nam Ngum River flows from Xieng Khouang to Vientiane province. It has a length of 354 km.

Nam Kading River in Borikhamssay province has a length of 103 km.

Se Bang Fai River runs between Khammouane and Savannakhet. It has a length of 239 km.

Se Bang Hieng River in Savannakhet province has a length of 338 km.

Nam Selanong River has a length of 115 km.

Nam Sedon River runs between Saravane and Champassak. It has a length of 192 km. Nam Sekong River flows from Saravane and Sekong to Attapeu province. It has a length of 320 km.

Questions:

1. What is the length of the Mekong River from the North to the South of Laos?

.....

2. Where can you find Nam Beng River?
.....
3. What is the length of Nam Khan River that runs between Houaphan and Luang Prabang?
.....
4. What is the name of the river that within three provinces?

5. Read and Match

Read the text and match each paragraph with its main ideas.

- ☐ 1 Mekong is a trans-boundary river in Southeast Asia that runs pass through China, Myanmar, Laos, Thailand, Cambodia and Vietnam. Its estimated length is 4,200 km. It is the world's 12th longest river.
 - ☐ 2 During the early months of year, there isn't much rainfall so the river calmly flows. The heavy rain usually begins in May. In September, Many rivers are pouring water into the delta of Vietnam and water levels could increase up to thirty times of its normal. The tide could be as high as twenty metres in some areas.
 - ☐ 3 Over 50 million people are not only depend on the Mekong Basin as a food source but also producing crops such as; fish, rice, and vegetables. The Mekong Delta provides 40% of Vietnamese food supply. Each year when the river levels rise, many species of fish swim upstream into nearby lakes to lay their eggs then return to the river during the river levels fall.
 - ☐ 4. Like other countries in Southeast Asia, the Lao PDR also depends on the Mekong River as a main food source, water supply and a major route for transport goods from the north to the south in all weather conditions.

The main ideas of each paragraph:

- A Million of people depend on The Mekong basin as a major food source.
- B The Mekong River is very long.
- C The Mekong River is the main food source and route for transport goods in Laos.
- D The flow of the Mekong River extremely changes in different time of year.

6. Complete

Complete the sentences by writing suitable words in the blanks.

1. The Mekong River _____ passes through six countries.
2. In some areas the tide can be as high as _____ twenty metres in wet season.
3. Forty percent of Vietnamese food supply comes from the Mekong _____.
4. The Mekong is all weather _____ for transport goods from the north to the south.
5. Each year when the river levels rise many _____ of fish swim upstream into nearby lakes.

7. Read and complete

This text contains some of difficult adjectives; try to guess what they mean, then complete the sentences with the strong adjectives.

A trip to Khonephapheng

Travelers can go by air from Vientiane to Pakse, then continue on their trip by bus to Khonephapheng.

The waterfall surrounded with thick forest, several of wide plants and gorgeous tropical birds. This region is also popular in fruits.

The waterfall has its own beauty. Huge volume of water tumbles over natural barrier of rocks, creating a heavy veil of water vapour over the rapids.

Further down the river, travelers might be lucky enough to see some pakha – the famous Mekong dolphin. These fascinating fish only can be found in this region, but sadly, they are almost extinct.

Language note

There are two kinds of adjectives in the text:

ordinary adjectives: thick, wide, famous, beautiful, heavy, lucky strong adjectives: gorgeous, delicious, huge, fascinating

Strong adjectives are like very + ordinary adjectives

gorgeous = very beautiful

delicious = very nice (used with food and drinks)

huge = very big fascinating = very interesting

Here are some more examples:

ordinary adjectives	-	strong adjectives
good		excellent
bad		terrible
afraid		terrified
small		tiny
surprised		amazed

Exercise

Choose the correct adjectives to fill in the blanks.

1. Maly is _____ of snake.
2. A mosquito is a _____ insect.
3. Thong did very well in his math test. He got an _____ mark.
4. There was a _____ flood in Vientiane in 1966.

lowest	ຕໍ່າສຸດ	wet season	ລະດູຝົນ

2. Listen and repeat

Listen and repeat the words/phrases in the box after the teacher.

3. Listen and practise

Listen to the dialogue and practise it in pair.

Sack: Have you decided what to do on New Year Holidays?

Thong: I think I will go to my hometown in Xiengkhouang.

Sack: Why don't you stay here and enjoy celebrating the New Year with us?

Thong: I love to. But I have to take some winter clothes to my family. In December and January the weather in Xiengkhouang is very cold. The temperature at night could easily drop to 0°C.

Sack: Really? I don't know much about the climate in Laos.

4. Read and complete

- Answer the questions.
 - What is the climate like in Laos?
 - Do different parts of Laos have different weather?
- Read the text and answer question below.

Laos-climate and seasons

Laos is a tropical region in Southeast Asia. The climate is generally hot and humid. There are two seasons in Laos – the dry season and the wet season (or rainy season). The dry season begins in November and ends in April. The wet season begins in May and ends in October.

The average temperature and rainfall are varied in different parts of Laos according to latitude and altitude. In the lowland the average daytime temperature is high – around 25°C all year round. The coolest months are December and January, where temperature could drop to 15°C in most parts of the country, in Xiengkhouang could easily drop to 0°C during night time. March and April are the hottest months; temperature could reach 38°C, especially in the south. During most of the rainy season, the average daytime temperature is around 29°C in the lowland, and around 25°C in the highlands.

The driest time of year is in March and May. During this time there is a little rainfall. The wettest month of year is in August. Rainfall is very variable in different parts of the country. The mountainous areas have more rain than the lowland areas. The annual rainfall could be as high as 3,900 mm.

*25°C = twenty-five degrees Celsius

a) Complete these sentences.

1. There are two seasons in Laos; the _____ season and the _____ season.
2. In Xiengkhouang, the _____ could be as low as 0°C.
3. August is the _____ month.
4. During the rainy season, the average daytime temperature in the _____ is 25°C.

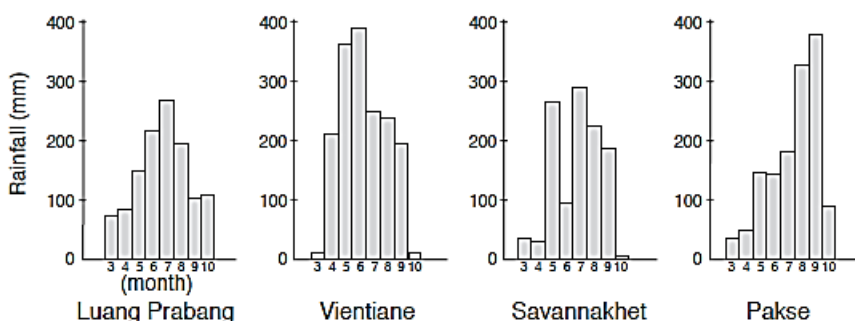

b) Use the correct word or phrase from the brackets to complete the sentences.

1. The weather in January is _____ than in March. (cool/cooler/coolest)
2. In April there is _____ rain than in June. (fewer/less)
3. There is much _____ rain in the highland than in the lowland. (more/fewer/less)
4. August has _____ rain. (the more/many/the most)
5. Vientiane is not as cool _____ Xiengkhouang. (as/than/the)

5. Match

Look at the graphs. They show the rainfall each month during a period from March to October in four cities. Look at the information below. Match each piece of information with the correct city.

Monthly rainfall: March–October 1993

(Adapted from Atlas of the Lao PDR, National Geographic Department, 1995)

- A In May, the rainfall was 370 mm, but the wettest month was June, with 390 mm of rain. ☞ _____ .
- B July was the wettest month, with 280 mm of rain. There was more rain in October than in September. ☞ _____ .
- C More rain fell in September than in any other month – 380 mm. April was quite dry, with only 40 mm of rain. ☞ _____ .
- D There was a lot of rain in May – 270 mm. Then June was fairly dry, with only 95 mm. The month with the highest rainfall was July. ☞ _____ .

6. Ask and answer

Here are four graphs showing the average high and low temperatures for the same four cities during the same period. Work in pair, take turn to ask and answer the questions using information from the graphs.

Example:

A: What was the highest temperature in Luang Prabang in September?

B: 31°C.

A: Which month has the lowest temperature in Vientiane?

B: March.

A: What was the hottest month in Savannakhet?

B: May.

A: Which city has the lowest temperature in March?

B: Luang Prabang.

Average temperatures: March–October 1993

(Adapted from Atlas of the Lao PDR, National Geographic Department, 1995)

Complete

Complete the text by using information from the graph above.

In Pakse during the period of March – October 1993, the wettest month was (1) _____, with 380 mm of (2) _____. The (3) _____ month was May, with (4) _____ temperature of 36°C. The driest month in this period was (5) _____, when only 35 mm of rain fell. The (6) _____ temperature in March was 19°C.

7. Write

Write about the temperature and rainfall in Luang Prabang, Vientiane or Savannakhet by using information from the two graphs and Exercise 7 as a model.

It's often foggy and sometimes it snows.

4. Read and complete

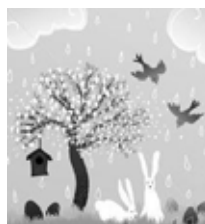

→ Answer the questions.

- What is the climate like in Europe?
- How is it different from Laos?
- How many seasons are there in Europe? What are they called?

→ Read the text and answer the questions below.

The season in Europe

There are four seasons in Europe and the weather is very different from Southeast Asia. Spring begins in March and ends in May. During the spring the weather is warm and sunny. There are some showers. Trees are beginning to have new leaves and later flowers. There are various types of colourful flowers where people can enjoy looking at their beauty in this time of year in Europe.

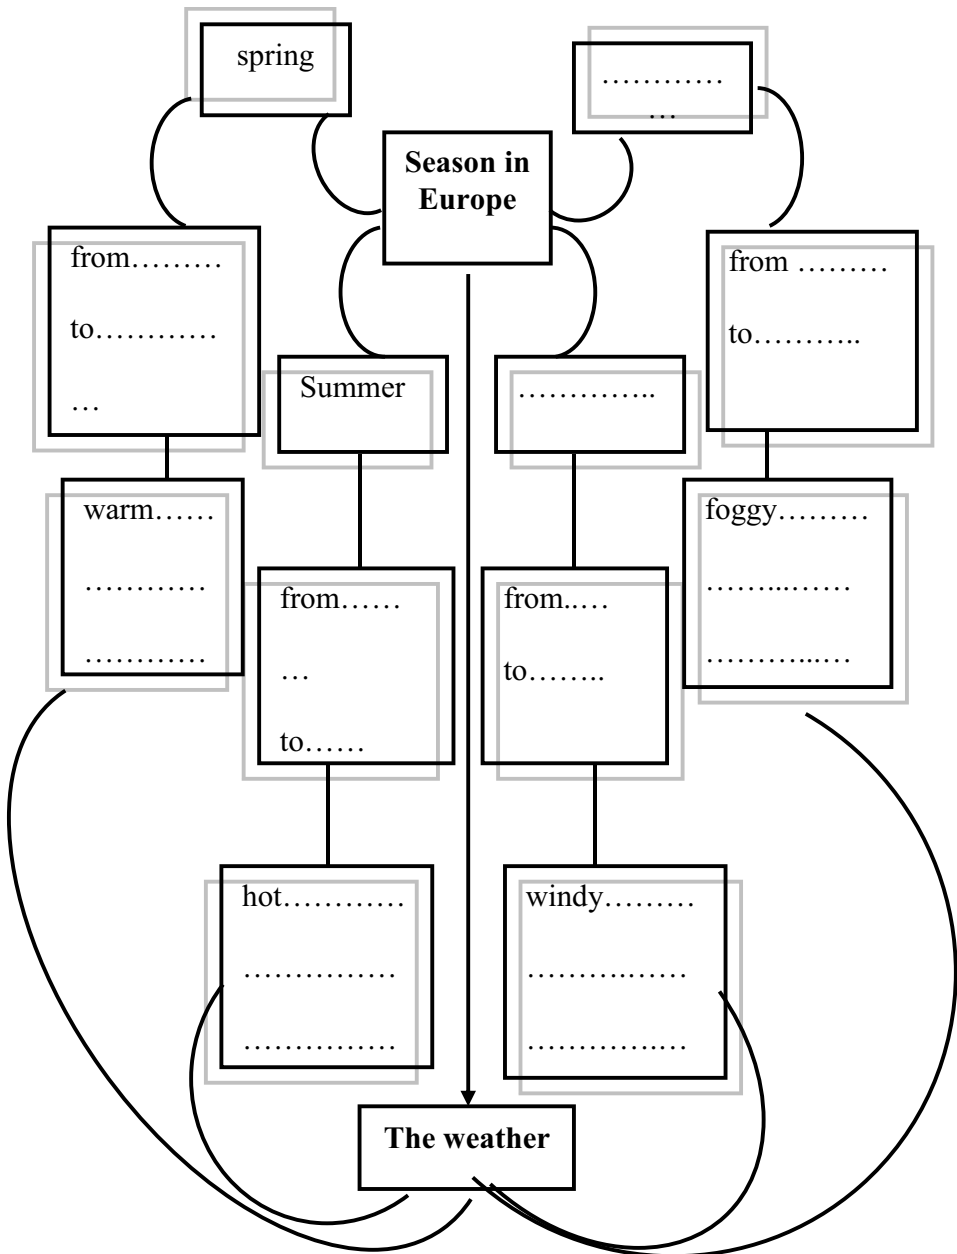

Summer begins in June and ends in August. During the summer the weather is hot and sunny. There're also possibilities of having some light rain in this season. Summer is the best time to have picnics with family and friends or enjoy going to the beaches.

Autumn begins in September and ends in November. During the autumn the weather is cool and wet. There are lots of clouds in the sky and windy. The leaves are turning brown and soon they begin to fall.

The winter begins in December and ends in February. During the winter the weather is very cold, foggy and snowy, especially in northern parts of Europe. People dresses in warm clothes and they enjoy ice-skating. There isn't much of sunlight during the day so days become shorter and the nights are longer in winter.

Manikone: Oh! Well. What's the major health problem?

Phet: The major problem is the high mortality rate of mother and child.

Manikone: How high is it?

- Phet: Well, the maternal mortality rate is about 470 death per 100,000 live births and infant mortality rate is about 98 per 1000 live birth.
- Manikone: How do you deal with that situation?
- Phet: The local village authorities and staff at the centre have been encouraging people to come and use the services of the centre.
- Manikone: How does the Government cope with the situation?
- Phet: The Government stresses on building health care centre for every village, especially in the remote areas.
- Manikone: Do you think that will help reduce the mortality rate?
- Phet: Yes, and I also believe people will come and use the services of the health care centre. This will lead to the reduction of infant and maternal mortality rate.

Mother and Child Health in Laos

The maternal mortality rate in Laos is among the highest in the region. In Laos, the maternal mortality rate is about 470 death per 100,000 live births. Today, the Lao government takes mother and child care as the first priority task in the area of public health. Almost all villages in Laos now have access to health care centre. However, some villages in remote areas still have no access to health care centre. The Ministry of Public Health is now planning to establish health care centre for all villages.

In conjunction with the mother health care, the government of Laos pays more attention to the child health care because the infant mortality rate or child mortality rate is also high among the age group of under 5. It is about 98 per 1000 live births. To improve infant mortality rate, the Ministry of Health stresses on immunization and vaccination against diseases for every child. In the near future, the maternal and infant mortality rates will be reduced to a certain level.

ASEAN population

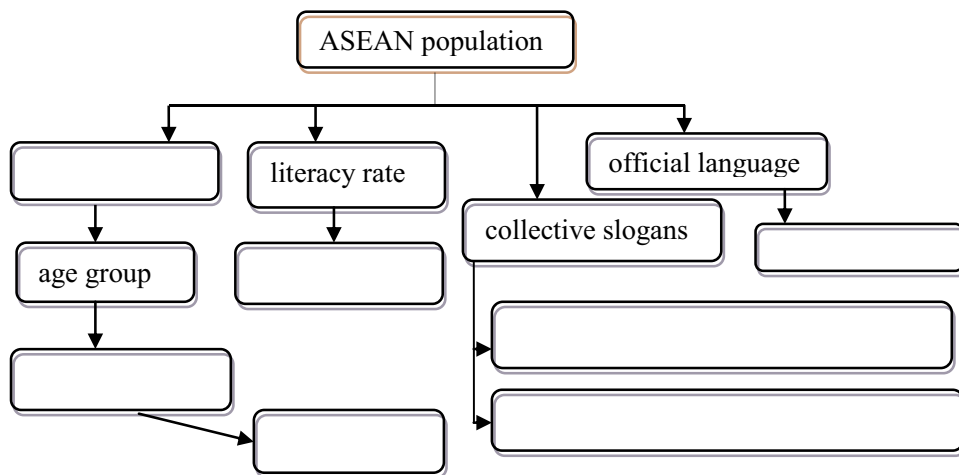

The ASEAN region has a total population of over 620 million, of which over 60 percent belong to the age group of 15 to 60. The region therefore has a relatively young population and has a relatively high literacy rate ranging from 80.2 percent to 99 percent. Most ASEAN member countries have diverse cultures, ethnic groups, and dialects, in the population formation of their respective countries.

However, all ASEAN member countries have set some collective slogans known as “one vision, one identity, one community” and “a unity in diversity”. To make the communication among member countries easy, the ASEAN leaders have decided to use English language as working language for communicating among member countries.

There are a number of conferences, workshops, trainings, and seminars of different levels of government officials each year. In addition, more activities have been organized like cultural exchange, SEA games, and ASEAN Youth Camp. The ASEAN Youth Camp aims to help young people from all countries in the region to meet, work together and learn about their diverse cultures and histories, toward greater solidarity and mutual understanding for the establishment of a strong ASEAN Community.

Mekong River in Laos

The Mekong River flows through Laos 1.835 km from the North to the South. The River is the main navigation and provides food supply for Lao people. The Mekong River begins in China and runs through Laos, Myanmar, Thailand, Cambodia and Vietnam. It flows through Laos from Bokeo province to Khonephapheng in Champasack province. From the past to present time, people who live along the Mekong River have used it as the main navigation route. People transport foods and products by boats on the Mekong. Lao people who live on the Mekong can go fishing all year round. The best season to go fishing is in the wet season when the water level is high. People can go fishing for their own consumption or selling fish in market places. In conclusion, The Mekong River is the main geographical component for Laos as it is the main source of foods supply and navigation route.

Malnutrition in rural Laos

Topic sentence = Topic + main idea

Malnutrition in rural Laos has become a major problem.

Most children in rural areas of Laos are facing serious malnutrition. They are thin, short, and underweight because of lacking vitamins from 5 groups of foods. In providing awareness and knowledge to people, the Ministry of Education and Sports together with the Ministry of Public Health has launched a campaign on the reduction of malnutrition among children in rural areas. The Ministry of Education and Sports has implemented school feeding and meal programs. The teams from the Provincial Education and Sports Service have selected target schools in their respective province. They cooperate with Student Parents Association. The teams requested the parents to cook lunch for the children as they will supply flour, rice, kitchen utensils and food to store at school. The teams from the Ministry of Public Health are doing more for the health of children by giving them vaccination, immunization and treatment.

In conclusion, the cooperation between the Ministry of Education and Sports and the Ministry of Public Health has helped reducing the malnutrition among children in rural areas of Laos.
