Introduction

English textbook for secondary school Book Five is the fifth in a series of seven textbooks which are currently developed to respond to the new policy of the Ministry of Education and Sports on the reform of general education from 11 years to 12 years. Upon the new educational reform, the Ministry of Education has decided to add another year to secondary school program in academic year 2009-2010. To implement the new policy, the Foreign Language Resource Center at the Research Institute for Educational Sciences in cooperation with the Faculty of Letters at the National University of Laos have formed the team to develop the Curriculum and write the textbook with teacher's guide through financial support of the Basic Education Sector Development Project (BESDP).

Along with the textbook, the teacher's guide has been provided in order to help teachers perform their teachings effectively. The teacher's guide has included teaching techniques for each step of the lessons. There are also some instructions how to use teaching aids and some suggestions for teachers and students how to create teaching aids for their own classes.

However, the textbook is produced under the time pressure; therefore, some minor errors could not be avoided. The Foreign Language Resource Centre highly appreciates all comments and suggestions from readers and these are considered as a great contribution to the quality assurance of the textbook as well as to the development of the Lao National Education. The Research Institute for Educational Sciences avails itself of this opportunity to express its sincere thanks to all contributors.

Uncle Boun and Aunt Vanh have got two children, a boy and a girl. Uncle La is only fifteen so he hasn't got any children but he's got a puppy. My grandma's name is Oun. Kham: Yes, of course. The Lao traditional family is an extended family and it is an important unit.

John: Do both men and women do the same work?

Kham: No, not really. The men usually do most of the heavy work, but the women are expected to do lighter work.

John: And what about the elderly people?

John: That's interesting.

4. Read

- Answer the questions.

 - What kind of work do people in the family do?

The Lao traditional family

The family is an important unit in Laos. There are obligations of mutual help and support towards relatives of both the father and the mother. Work is usually shared among family members according to their age and gender.

The men do most of the heavy work on the farm, as well as hunting, building, and fixing tools. Women are expected to do almost all the domestic tasks such as carrying water and firewood, husking rice, cooking, spinning and weaving, and making clothes. Elderly people do lighter work and child-minding.

Lao children are brought up to be self-reliant from an early age. They learn correct behaviour by watching their elder brothers and sisters. They also learn important skills from their elders by imitating. Older children have more responsibility than their younger brothers and sisters. All children are expected to obey their elders.

5. Read and Match

Read the text again and match the Lao meanings in the box with the correct English words and phrases.

Chanthalay: Yes, I'm going there tomorrow.

Friend: Who is responsible for the chores in your family when you're away from home, your mother?

Chanthalay: No. We live in another house. My husband and my daughters do most of the housework. My mother sometimes comes over to help with the washing and ironing.

Friend: And is your husband happy with this?

Chanthalay: Yes. He thinks it's good for us to help each other in the family.

Friend: It certainly is. The most important thing for the family members is to share love and care, isn't it?

4. Read

- Answer the questions.
- How is family life changing in Laos?
 - How is life in the city different from that in the countryside?
- Read the following text.

A family in Vientiane

Somphanh and Chanthalay have been married for twelve years. They have two children, one is ten and the other is eight years old. They live in an apartment in Vientiane. The apartment is near Chanthalay's mother's house. It is quite large and certainly big enough for the family.

Chanthalay has an important job with the government. She is very busy and often has to travel on business, so she is away from home very often.

Somphanh works as an engineer, so he is less busy than his wife. He can spend more time at home with the children. This means that Somphanh and his children have a lot of responsibilities around the house. They do most of the chores. Chanthalay's mother sometimes comes over to help with the washing and ironing.

Somphanh does most of the shopping. He goes to the market and cooks for the family almost every day.

5. Read and answer

Read the text in exercise 4 and answer the following questions.

1. How long have Somphanh and Chanthalay been married?

2. How many children do they have?

.....

3. How old are they?

4. Where do they live?

5. Does Chanthalay work for a private company?
6. What is Somphanh's job?
7. Why does Somphanh have to do most of the chores?
8. Who sometimes comes over to help with the washing and ironing?
9. How often does Somphanh go to the market?
10. Is Somphanh's family big or small?

6. Grammar note

do the shopping	=	ຊື້ເຄື່ອງ
do the cooking	=	ແຕ່ງກິນ
do the ironing	=	ລືດເຄື່ອງ
do the gardening	=	ເຮັດສວນ

7. Ask and answer

Ask your partner about family responsibilities (do the laundry, do the washing up ...)

Example:

A: Who does most of the cooking in your family?

B: My mother usually does the cooking.

B: What chores do you do for your family?

A: I sometimes do the shopping and gardening.

8. Listen and complete

All schools have rules. If students break the rules, they will be penalized. Schools in the Lao PDR have a system of discipline points.

Each student starts the school year with 600 points. If a student breaks a rule, he / she will lose some points. The teacher will inform the student if the teacher deducts his/her points. When the student loses 100 points, the teacher invites the student's parents to school. The parents and teacher discuss the way to help the student. If the student loses 600 points, he / she will have to repeat the class.

Here are some penalties for rule-breaking at secondary schools:

Parrots, for example, live in hot tropical forests. Penguins live in the snow and ice of the islands. Gulls live on sea coasts and eat food from the sea and land. Some sea birds such as the albatross spend many months at sea, sleeping on the water and eating fish. They only return to land to breed. Some birds have lost the ability to fly. The ostrich of Africa and the emu of Australia can both run very fast, but can't fly. The penguin can't fly either, but it is a very good swimmer.

Lao traditional festivals

Laos has many traditional festivals that people around the country celebrate each year. Lao people practise Buddhism, so most Lao traditional festivals relate to a Buddha story. There are several most popular traditional festivals in Laos including Lao New Year festival “Boun Pi Mai Lao”, Rocket festival “Boun Bang Fai”, Buddhist Lent festival “Boun Khao Phansa”, End-of-Buddhist Lent festival “Boun Ork-Phansa” Boat

Racing festival “Boun Souang Heua”, That Luang festival “Boun That Luang”, Phavet festival “Boun Phavet”, Lao people who practise Buddhism organize or participate in Lao traditional festivals in their villages or travel to other places. Boat Racing festival is usually organized in villages on rivers that have Buddhist temples. That Luang festival is only organized in Vientiane Capital.

Phavet, Lao New Year, and Buddhist Lent festivals are organized in villages that have Buddhist temples. Rocket festivals are organized in villages that have Buddhist temples and safe places to fire rockets.

Lao people are happy to celebrate their traditional festivals. Elderly people also encourage their children and grandchildren to go to temples when festivals are being celebrated. Chinese astrology

Chinese prophets in ancient time had divided the calendar of years into twelve years which are represented by animals. Those years included the year of rat, ox, tiger, rabbit, dragon, snake, horse, goat, monkey, rooster, dog, and pig.

People who were born in the year of the rat are busy, energetic, charming, generous, and they try hard to make people like them. They can become good leaders.

People who were born in the year of the ox are usually hard-working and practical. They sometimes forget to play. They are rather conservative, and they do not like change and do not easily accept new ideas.

People who were born in the year of the tiger are brave, confident, and unpredictable. They love parties and taking risks. They like to be free, so they find it hard to be married.

People who were born in the year of the rabbit are usually clever, quiet, calm, and they like to do things correctly. They like to be comfortable. They hate to argue and do anything to avoid a disagreement.

People who were born in the year of the dragon are bold, brave people who are very noticeable in a crowd. They are very honest and truthful.

People who were born in the year of the snake are intelligent. They are very persistent when trying to solve a problem. They love luxury, but they can be self-indulgent and lazy.

People who were born in the year of the horse are very active. They love jokes, and they are friendly and entertaining. They are often clever and have good ideas, but they might leave things half-finished.

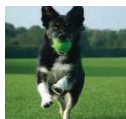

People who were born in the year of the goat are quiet and sincere, but they get depressed easily. They worry a lot. They enjoy concerts and music, and they love art. They are creative people, but they are not very good at making money.

People who were born in the year of the monkey are very intelligent and active, although sometimes they look quiet and shy. They have very good memories, and they love to make people laugh. They often give up things easily because of their weakness.

People who were born in the year of the rooster are complicated people. They are difficult to understand. They are critical of others, but they hate being criticized. They are analytical thinkers and they are not inquisitive.

People who were born in the year of the dog are kind and loyal. They like spending, and they can be careless with money. They are honest and sometimes outspoken. Often, they secretly worry.

People who were born in the year of the pig are kind, friendly, and brave. They are very reliable, and they will do anything to help a friend. They are very clever with money. They make good bankers or investors.

Today most prophets still use this prophecy to read people's characters, and people still believe in it.

International Festivals

Since tourism industry has spread across the world, people have visited different places where they can see different festivals. In China, the celebration of the New Year lasts about three days. On the first day, people make offerings of at least five different kinds of food. They place the offerings on a specially decorated table or an altar. At night, they light fireworks to welcome home spirits of their ancestors. In the evening, the family has dinner together and children receive red envelopes with money inside. On the second day of the festival, the first day of the New Year, family members stay at home. They wait at home and hope the first person to come through the door at the start of the New Year will be a nice man. This will bring them good luck for the whole year. On the last day of Chinese New Year, people go out to visit their friends and relatives. Sometimes, they have picnics or other gatherings.

In Scotland, Scottish people call their New Year Festival “Hogmanay”. To prepare for the New Year, they clean the house and prepare traditional food for the New Year party. They celebrate the New Year at home in the evening of December 31st. They have a party that all friends and strangers are welcome. They eat, drink, and dance together. Just before midnight, everybody watches the clock and counts down the seconds: “ten, nine, eight, seven, six, five, four, three, two, one...” At exactly midnight, everyone shouts “Happy New Year”. Then they stand in a circle, join hands and sing

Auld Lang Syne, a traditional Scottish New Year song. The first person who comes into the house after midnight is called the first-footer. Scottish people believe they will have good luck for the next year if the first-footer is a healthy and wealthy dark-haired man who carries a piece of coal and a piece of mistletoe (a special plant).

Process of making a phone call

To make a phone call to different provinces or countries, you need to know the areas, provinces and country access and code numbers of those areas. To make a call to other provinces within Laos, you need to dial the provincial access number first (0), then the area code, and then the local number. Making a call to Luang Prabang, for instance, you need to dial: 0 + 71 + 123456 (six digits for a landline phone). However, to make a call to or from a mobile phone, the area codes of all provinces is 20. This means that you have to dial: 0 + 20 + 12345678 (eight digits for a mobile phone). If you want to make a call from overseas to Lao P.D.R, the country access number is 856. The following process is necessary for you to follow when making a call from area to areas.

Greeting cards

A greeting card is a great way to celebrate any occasion, or just let someone know that we are thinking of them. There are two main kinds of greeting cards - everyday and seasonal cards.

The most popular everyday cards include birthday, anniversary, get well, friendship, sympathy, retirement, thinking of you, thank you, and many other occasions. The most popular seasonal cards are: Christmas, Valentine's Day, Mother's Day, and New Year.

Anniversary greeting cards are especially popular. We can find many types of these cards. They are specifically designed for particular anniversaries, for example: greeting cards to wives from husbands, or parents from children.

Thinking of you and friendship greeting cards are great for letting someone know we care about them. It is true when people get greeting cards they are happy to know that someone cares.

Mother's Day is a great time for letting our mother, or anyone who has acted like our mother know how much we care about her by sending her a greeting card. Mother's Day greeting cards are no longer just for mothers, but for all women and everyone.

The best greeting card, anyone will give us, is one that comes from the heart.

I live in Nongviengkham village, but I usually go shopping at DongDok market. In this market, I can find enough products necessary for me and my family for daily consumption. I really love visiting this market because it offers a variety of products from fashionable clothes to local products that are much cheaper here. Manivone's spending behaviour

I have to spend a lot of money on food, groceries, household goods, clothes and stationery for my children every year. So I pay very careful attention to prices. I have to know what prices I expect to pay for these items. I usually spend about 45,000 kip for a kilo of beef, 35,000 kip for a kilo of chicken and 70,000 kip for 5 kilos of washing powder. I also spend 150,000 kip for the electricity bill and 100,000 kip for water supply a month. I pay about 1,000,000 kip for my two children's clothes and stationery, and 500,000 kip for household goods a year. By knowing the normal prices of different products, I don't have to pay too much money on them. Knowing different markets helps me find the best prices to pay for. For example, local shops and markets have very good prices for food, clothes, stationery for children and groceries, while the big shopping centres like Talat Sao Mall, Sangjieng and NongDouang markets have very good prices for household goods and electric appliances. I also ask the prices from my friends or neighbours before spending my money. In one month, I may visit three to four markets to look for reasonable items that I regularly use. I always walk around and stop at many stores to compare prices for the items I need. I am a very price conscious person, so I don't waste money on buying things. I find that attention to prices is the best way for me to spend less on advertised products.

25th SEA GAMES, LAOS

The 25th Southeast Asian games (SEA Games) was held in Vientiane, Laos in December 2009. This was the first time Laos hosted the SEA Games. Previously, Laos declined to host the 1965 Southeast Asian Peninsular games because of financial difficulties. The Lao government decided to host the 25th SEA Games in the hope of boosting the social-economic development of the country. The SEA Games will help expose Lao culture and traditions to the world. A new stadium was built on the 13th South Road at KM 16. It was a sports complex that can organize many sports games at the same time.

The mascots for the 2009 SEA Games were two white elephants dressed in traditional Lao attire. The male elephant was named Champa and the female elephant was named Champi. The two white elephants symbolized Laos as it was known as the kingdom of Lane Xang in ancient times, which literally meant "the kingdom of a million elephants" when translated into English.

The mascots were depicted as being cheerful, which was an important part in making the sports competitions joyful and lively.

Lao people were very excited to welcome their guests from ASEAN member countries. Athletes from ASEAN member countries were welcomed at Wattay International Airport by the Lao SEA Games committee and then they were sent to the SEA Games campus near The National University of Laos. The Lao government encouraged Lao people to be a good host of the 25th SEA Games. Lao people were enthusiastic about the event as they saw their guests from neighbouring countries. They expressed their friendly culture to their visitors who were overwhelmed by the kindness, charm, and hospitality of Lao people.

On weekends, I always watch football matches of the English Premier League. Every weekend after dinner, I usually watch football matches from 7:30 to 11:00 p.m. My favourite team is Arsenal or 'the Gunners'. Last Sunday, I watched the big match between Arsenal and Liverpool at Emirates Stadium. There were about 80,000 fans in the stadium. They cheered their own teams by waving the flag of their teams and made a wave around the stadium.

In the first half, Torres, a Liverpool striker, dribbled the ball past Arsenal full-back and shot it past the goalkeeper into the net. After Liverpool's lead of 1-0, Arsenal fought back and controlled the game. At the 44th minute Arshavin an Arsenal striker got the ball crossed in by Fabricas and shot it into the net. The first half ended with a 1-1 draw.

In the second half, the game was opened, and the two teams exchanged their attacks. It was a fantastic game because both teams had very good teamwork. Players used professional techniques and individual abilities to attack their opponents. At the 77th minute, Arsenal played passing shots in the penalty area of Liverpool then Fabricas dribbled the ball past Liverpool full-back and kicked the ball into the net beautifully. The game finished with the victory of Arsenal 2-1 over Liverpool.

To make a phone call to different provinces or countries, you need to know the areas, provinces and countries access and area codes. To make a call to other provinces within Laos, you need to dial the provincial access number first “0”, then the area code and local numbers. Making a call to Luang Prabang, for instance, you need to dial: 0 + 71 + 123456 (six digits)
